The MM-27 is a very well produced and thought out. The MM-27 has a very good rating on the russian forum. But. The House passed a two-month stopgap budget Friday afternoon, but with a fair amount of political chicanery and added extensions that will allow the fight over the funding to drag out into next year. The vote was 227 to 198, with 45 Democrats voting against the measure and 34 Republicans voting for it. The Senate is expected to take up the bill in the coming days, although they may put off the vote until next week. However, President Obama indicated Friday that the Senate should bring the House's bill up. The first part of the bill, which was passed in the Senate last week, called for several government agencies to be closed until Oct. 1. This portion of the bill will most likely be extended until Jan. 15 as House Republicans insist on new protections for seniors and the poor, and for abortion funding in healthcare. The "Closed" agencies were: U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service National Park Service National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Housing and Urban Development Farm Service Agency U.S. Department of Agriculture Some of the funding issues have already been resolved, with the White House committing to add $3 billion to the bill's already high $1.1 trillion price tag. Those funding issues include extending the Children's Health Insurance Program and extending unemployment benefits. The bill includes several unrelated extensions for various programs such as the Export-Import Bank and also moves $300 million to three progressive Democratic Senate offices and another $80 million to the Government Accountability Office. The various extensions also include more than $60 billion for the military, as well as a whopping $26 billion for transportation and a whopping $10 billion for the Department of Homeland Security. The Republican majority vote will come as a shock to many, particularly after the very tight vote in the Senate this week. 82157476af
